FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE: 4 April 2002

Build the Board expands into Canada

Build the Board, Inc. and Corangamite are pleased to announce the establishment of BuildtheBoard Canada to bring the Build the Board services to Canada.

BuildtheBoard.com provides companies with self-service access to the best candidates available globally for Director and Advisor positions. Prime users of the service include growth companies as well as executive recruitment, venture capital and investment banking firms. Buildthe Board.com also provides information and training related to the operation of Board of Directors and Advisory Boards. Candidates enter their profiles in BuildtheBoard.com at no cost – for a low annual fee, companies gain access to the system and an unlimited search capability.

“This is a tremendous opportunity”, said Trevor Cook, North American President for Corangamite, “Build the Board is a fully operational business with a clear market need and a proven revenue model. We’ll be in position to launch BuildtheBoard Canada nationally in one to two months. Of course in the meantime, the website is fully open for business and Canadian candidates and companies can register and get on with meeting each other.”

“I welcome our Canadian partners,” said Ed Loessi, founder and CEO of Build the Board, “This is a key step in the global growth of Build the Board. We’re already well established in the USA and Australia and are growing in Europe and Asia. An in-country presence in Canada will enable us to build a deep pool of Canadian talent and provide a comprehensive range of services right across the country.”

“Build the Board represents the bargain of the century for growth companies”, said Cook, “for a few hundred dollars a year they gain access to an unmatched pool of senior business people – and not just in Canada either, there are candidates registered from many countries and across many industries.

Corangamite is an international company providing growth companies with technology transfer and market entry services focused on North America and Asia Pacific.

Corangamite provides advice and support for Australian companies in the Canadian market and for Canadian companies in the Australian and Asia Pacific markets.
